NCHS Teachers Named to Who's Who Among American Teachers

Five teachers from Normal Community High School were recently honored by being listed in the Who's Who Among American Teachers for 2005/2006. This is the only publication dedicated exclusively to the recognition of America's premier teachers. Who's Who Among American Teachers is distributed to all state superintendents of public education and several hundred public libraries throughout the country. The publication is also made available to educational associations, organizations and institutions traditionally interested in knowing who the good teachers are, what their qualifications are and where to find them. Who's Who Among American Teachers is intended to motivate all teachers by letting them know that their students and others appreciate their efforts in the field of education. Only high school and college students who are themselves named to Who's Who Among American Students and the National Deans' List are invited to nominate one teacher from their entire academic experience.

The Normal Community High School teachers who are recognized this year are Mrs. Melissa Siebenthal, Mrs. Anne Libert, Mr. Jeff Christopherson, Mr. Ben Luginbuhl, and Mr. Ryan Short. Both Mrs. Libert and Mr. Short have been honored in previous years.

It is professionally delightful to see these fine professionals recognized for the positive impact they have had on the lives of their students. One of the most sincere honors that a teacher in the United States can achieve is to be selected by one or two students of merit as a teacher who has made a difference in the life of that student. The Normal Community High School community is very proud of our outstanding teachers.
